Dear Parents and Carers,

We wanted to write to you ahead of the Bank Holiday weekend to thank you sincerely for your support of Holland Park School after what we know has been a challenging few days. It has been very much appreciated that so many of you have rallied round while a number of senior colleagues have been unavoidably away from the school.

On that note, we wanted to let you know that as well as having brought in a small amount of additional senior capacity this past week on an interim basis, we will be continuing – and extending – that next week so that our excellent staff team have the support they need to ensure the school is as stable as possible and so that your children are receiving a first-class education. This is such an important term of course, not least for those in exam years, but for all our students, and our focus continues to be that they have the best school experience.

We will write again at the start of next week with full details of the arrangements but wanted to let you know today of the broad plan so that you are reassured.

Thank you again – and we wish you and your families a very happy long weekend.

Yours faithfully,

The Board of Governors
Holland Park School

Arwel Jones
Interim Headteacher
